SPEAKING IN RIDDLES

Here's the solution step by step:

The farmer takes the duck across the river first and leaves it on the other side.
He goes back to the original side and takes the wolf across the river.
After dropping off the wolf, he takes the duck back to the original side.
The farmer then takes the corn across the river and leaves it with the wolf.
Finally, the farmer goes back to the original side one last time and brings the duck across the river.
Now, all three—the wolf, the duck, and the corn—are safely across the river!
