The Curro Nelspruit Class of 2025 has delivered an exceptional set of matric results, reflecting perseverance, commitment and a strong culture of academic excellence at the school. The matric class achieved 66 distinctions, with 99% of candidates passing and earning tertiary exemptions, opening the door to further studies at universities and colleges across the country. This performance highlights the calibre of teaching and the dedication of the learners. Academic excellence was further highlighted by 11 candidates achieving overall averages of 80% and above, a remarkable accomplishment that places these learners among the top academic performers. The overall subject performance was equally impressive, with the class achieving 148 subject A averages and 180 subject B averages. In addition, five subjects performed above the national average, reflecting strong academic consistency across the curriculum.

One learner, Mia Putter, achieved an outstanding achievement, having placed within the top 5% nationally in six or more subjects, while also achieving a Level 7 rating in life orientation a distinction reserved for the very top achievers.

Several learners also achieved top 1% results nationally in individual subjects, an honour that places them among the best candidates in South Africa. These achievements include:
